

EVENT MANAGEMENT

FACTOR

TEAM STRUCTURE

The project was made possible because of the constant effort of the following team members :

- ANINDITA NATH
- JAYANTA DAS
- KARUNA MUKHOPADHYAY
- SOUVIK ROY

PROBLEM DEFINITION

The System “eFactor” is a semi-automated system for event management. It is capable of managing multiple events happening in different locations. The system enables even the remote clients to make online registrations. It is powerful user-friendly and flexible and it offers great degree of customization with ease of management. It manages the whole logistics of the company with maximum optimization. It provides analytical status of event processing and follows efficient approach towards the execution of the show. The system projects the status of the events based on the authorization provided for the different entities. With its powerful functionality it can maintain the records of various events simultaneously, and can print various reports.

OBJECTIVE

Automating the event management procedure separates the task of supplying the data needed for a particular event from the methods used to manage the distribution and display of that event.

Following are the facilities that an automated event management system provides:

- Online event registration tools

Online event registration tools helps save time and avoid hassles with convenient self-service. The software allows people to register and pay without any added effort on the customer's part. No more endless hours are spent reading and answering member emails and faxes, and processing event payments for upcoming meetings, conventions and galas. That means it provides more time to plan a better and well planned event.

- Events can be added easily –enabling online registration

- Events can be added to the event database in a few minutes. It immediately shows up on the event calendar and now people can take advantage of the event management online registration software any time, day or night, with no help from the hosts.

- Registered members don't even have to retype contact info - the registration software automatically looks them up in the database.

- Secure processing of online payments

- Secure online payments using the digital wallet account saves time from tracking down bounced cheques or inputting payment data by hand.
- All registrations are instantly stored in the database.

- Promoting events to ensure growth in attendance

- With online event promotion features, it's easy to get the word out about upcoming events, from lectures to seminars, galas and conventions. Add value for sponsors by allowing them to be 'seen' on the website and in emails.
- Targeted emails, automatic event notices are sent to people in the database.

- Saving Hours of Manual Processing

- The event management software emails confirmations to the attendee
- Automatic tracking means administrators always have an up-to-date list of registrants.

- Event management administration

The software automates the administrative trivia so that focus can be more on putting together a spectacular event. It's fully integrated with the website and contact database to save time. It involves:

- Adding an Event and setting up all event details
- Customizing event registration form
- Event Calendar

LITERATURE SURVEY

In today's day and age events have become synonymous with lifestyle and have thus become a large income generating market. Many of the industry profiles state that any event which requires funds would call for an excess budget, but the fact is a well planned strategy for an event will work on any budget. Event planning thus becomes a very important step in holding a successful event.

The first step to planning an event is to determine its very purpose. Almost all events require extensive planning. According to the type of event being planned for, the event planner needs to choose entertainment, location, guest list, speakers, and content. The location for events is endless, but with event planning they would likely be held at hotels, convention centers, reception halls, or outdoors depending on the event. Once the location is set the coordinator/planner needs to prepare the event with staff, set up the entertainment, and keep contact with the client. After all this is set the event planner has all the smaller details to address such as set up of the event, the food, drinks, music, guest list, budget, advertising and marketing and decorations. All this preparation is what is needed for an event to run smoothly. An event planner needs to be able to manage their time wisely for the event, and the length of preparation needed for each event so that it garners enough attention and is a success.

Automating the event management procedure separates the task of supplying the data needed for a particular event from the methods used to manage the distribution and display of that event.

Following is a listing of the various steps involved in the event planning procedure:

•Finding the objective of the event

- The purpose for the special event must be important enough to merit the time and expense needed to properly stage, publicize and evaluate the event.
- It is essential to match the type of event that has been selected to the purpose that it serves i.e. if you want to reach out to new users or thank your existing supporters
- Selection of a working committee with broad representation.
- Accommodating target groups that have a special stake in the event such as users, fund raisers, politicians, business leaders, senior citizens or parents.
- Deciding on a time to start the event-sometimes it is at least three months, and in many cases, a year ahead of time.
- Developing various ways to evaluate the event's success. Measurable event objectives may include attendance, the amount of money raised, and the amount of publicity ensured.
- Hold talks with others who have successfully staged similar events.

- Making a checklist

- A checklist provides a step-by-step guide to organizing and executing a special event.

- Creating a budget

- The objective is to provide event planners with a financial blueprint. The budget should be specific, and include revenue opportunities (sponsorship, ticket sales, donations, concession sales) as well as expenses printing, permits, insurance, speakers, food supplies, security).

- Considering logistics

With many activities going on simultaneously, there are many details to be checked. Major areas to consider and plan for include: size of space or building used, utility support needed, setup (tables and chairs, tents, parking) coordination, cleanup, emergency plans. This also includes transportation, and public services such as police and fire departments.

Planning publicity

Promoting an event takes creative thinking balanced with practicality. The primary objective is to publicize the event, but secondary objectives should be considered.

Evaluation of the event

Evaluation is made right after the event while the details are fresh. The participants can be made to fill out a questionnaire

- Limitations and Future Scope

As the event management industry grows and consolidates worldwide, associations play an increasingly significant role in professional support to the industry by ensuring the continued growth and success of event management professionals. The existing system will be modified to make it a better application from flexibility and user friendliness perspectives thus increasing its applicability to a wider audience. Following are some of the features that can be added keeping these perspectives in mind:

- Features such as a list of available venues can be added and their peak and non peak times indicated to make them easily approachable by the customers of Episode Event Management website.
- A shopping cart can be added to the system for auctioning various merchandises and souvenirs from past and future events alike.
- Similarly online sales can also be introduced to enhance our approachability to our customers.
- Better online payment facilities are to be provided for better accessibility of our services by our customers.
- Since the system is a web based application involving various customer information and details of their monetary accounts, security concerns are always high. Hence enhancing the security will be one of the goals set to be achieved in the newly designed system.

CONCLUSION

To conclude , this EVENT MANAGEMENT system is an automated system which provides the customers with online event registration tools saving time and avoiding hassles with convenient self-service, secure processing of online payments, saving hours of manual processing and promoting events to ensure growth in attendance.

Hence, in keeping with the modern trend, many of the manually done work can be systematically and automatically done with the help of this project. 'Automation at a low cost' is the distinguishing feature of the software.
